1. Introduction

Almost every aspect of human life involves language activity. This is an introduction course to the study of human language in general, with our main focus on English. The course is designed to acquaint students with formal techniques of linguistic analysis in many areas of linguistics including phonetics, phonology, morphology, syntax and semantics. The course will help enhance students' understanding of human language.

*Unmodified course evaluations from the most recent 3 semesters were uploaded in "첨부파일."

2. Course Objectives

By the end of the course the student will be able to better understand what language is and what it can tell us about the human mind, human society, and human history.

3. Class types and activities

This course will be conducted exclusively in English.

However, questions during office hours can be asked and answered in Korean if that is what a student wants.

Due to the current Covid-19 crisis, this course will be conducted on-line real-time using either Zoom or Google Meet.

However, the mid-term exam and final exam will be given off-line.
