1. Introduction

As the Third World countries did, Korea had confronted lots of challenges which had never been experienced in before and after 19th century. The Joseon Korea was forced to open the door by the Western Great Powers and finally had been under Japanese colonial rule for 35 years. With fight against the Empire of Japan and the help of the West, Korea set itself free from Japanese colony in 1945. However, the destiny of Korean Peninsula moved in a direction the Korean people never wanted, and the Korean War was looming ahead. As a result of a gloomy foreboding, one Korea was divided into two Koreas (South Korea and North Korea). Since then, two Koreas have maintained their systems, what to compete and what to take advantage of each other. This course surveys such dramatic historical processes on the modern road of Korea after learning the things to know about Korea and Korean People from premodern Korea.

2. Course Objectives

After taking this course, you should be able to:

- Clearly understand and explain historical events of premodern Korea and the tough modern road Korean people have experienced
- Make sense the unwearied will of Korean people for freedom and democracy
- Critically debate the problems contemporary Korean Society faces from historical perspectives in premodern Korea
- Perform a team research with a topic chosen by each team
- Clearly present the outline of term paper to the audience
